CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 13—Bensalem township high school building will be the scene of a Hallowe'en party, Oct. 31st, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Pupils from St. Charles parochial school and the public schools of Bensalem township have been invited to attend, free of charge. This event will be a community project, made possible by sponsorship of Cornwells Parent-Teacher Association, the Class Mothers Association, and the co-operation of the parents and residents of this vicinity. Within a short time, a canvass will be made to acquire donations of refreshments.

Business men in the area are supporting this event by offering bulk windows for the window-painting contest. Entries are to be submitted by the school children to Robert Parsons, art teacher, in the form of Hallowe'en pictures drawn on paper. The entries judged best by Mr. Parsons will be returned to the contestants to be reproduced on the windows. Prizes and trophies will be awarded the night of the party.

Kermitt Langdon, president of P. T. A., has engaged services of Nelson Thomas, a local square dance caller, to add to the entertainment of the junior and senior high school group in the gymnasium.

Children from grades one to six will meet in classrooms assigned to them where class mothers will be in attendance to entertain. Prizes will be awarded to winners of fancy costumes in both groups.

THINK SCHOOL CAN BE BUILT CHEAPER

Protest Meeting is Held in Langhorne Manor School Building

NAME A COMMITTEE

LANGHORNE MANOR, Oct. 13—After the proposed new consolidated high school had been thoroughly discussed at a taxpayers meeting last night, a committee was named to consult with the school boards of the five communities, and the architects, for the purpose of gathering additional information.

The meeting was attended by more than 75 residents and it was held in the Langhorne Manor public school building. The main object of the meeting was to protest the estimated construction cost of the proposed school which it is planned to build next year in Middletown township.

The committee consists of Thomas J. Janes, chairman; Robert Edwards and Henry McGrath. This committee was named to meet with the school boards of the five communities and with the architects, a Jenkintown firm, and then report to the citizens at another meeting.

Many questions were raised, particularly in regard to plans for so many specialized rooms. The thought expressed by many was that there should be more classrooms planned, rather than so many specialized rooms.

John Mladjen, president of the Neshaminy Parent-Teachers Association, told of various bills pending in the Legislature which would make possible the creation of a municipal authority to finance the cost of the proposed school.

Another speaker, Thomas Morris, stressed the importance of finance.

CRUSADE FOR FREEDOM RALLY HERE AROUSES MUCH ENTHUSIASM AS STUDENTS AND ADULTS HEAR STIRRING ADDRESSES

Pupils in the schools, along with civic groups and Boy Scouts, engaged in the 1951 fight against Communism after a youth rally at the high school grounds last evening.

Boy Scouts released five helium balloons, the same type as the 200,000 sent aloft from West Germany aimed at points behind the iron curtain.

Brigadier General Hugh B. Hester, chairman of five counties, including Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery, Chester and Philadelphia, who served as director of food and agriculture in the U. S. office of military government in Germany from 1945 to 1947, was the guest speaker.

W. H. Alexander, Bristol, the local chairman for the Crusade, introduced Gen. Hester.

General Hester, who commanded the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot from his return from Germany until June 25, 1951, is acutely aware of the impact of Russian propaganda in the west of Europe. He was there. He came home with the belief that world peace could never be achieved by the mere force of arms.

He realized that a sustained campaign of psychological warfare was needed to counter the vast propaganda machine in Red-controlled countries.

Addressing the crowd General Hester said:

"Psychological warfare is as old as war itself. Hitler refined the art with his technique of the big lie.

"We are interested in telling the truth. It's a mighty weapon, the real truth, but the mightiest

SHALL WEAPONS BE USED?

To some people it sounds senseless to talk about morals in war. Yet moral questions do influence decisions. One reason why the atomic bomb is not being used against Red China is that it has been decided it would produce destruction out of all proportion to the military advantage it might gain.

There are other reasons, of course. But if a weapon were available that would somehow insure victory at low cost in property damage and human life, Washington would probably order its use.

In any case, the matter of morals has been mentioned in connection with the new atomic weapons developed in this country. Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, raised it in a speech at Los Angeles.

Discussing these tactical weapons, which would be used in battle and not against civilians, he made the assertion that we are now able to bring to bear "on the aggressor himself at the place of his aggression—the fruits of our technological capabilities, and to meet the invading force in the field with a fire-power that should cancel out any numerical advantage he might enjoy."

Then he asked where this nation basically where it was before—with a heavy responsibility to use this power wisely, to use it only for defense and never for aggression, to use no more than is needed for a given situation.

His answer is that it leaves this nation basically where it was before—with a heavy responsibility to use this power wisely, to use it only for defense and never for aggression, to use no more than is needed for a given situation.

But he added: "We can with complete justification treat the tactical atom—divested of the awesome cloak of destruction which surrounds it in its strategic role—in the same manner as other weapons are treated."

If that thinking is sound, then the only question still to be answered is whether it would be expedient to use these new weapons in any given set of circumstances. It is not clear that Chairman Dean was thinking of Korea, for he may have created an impression he did not intend when he used the word "now."

After all, tests of these weapons under simulated battle conditions are still to come. He could have been looking ahead when he predicted that employment by the U.S. of tactical atomic weapons would not bring retaliation because "our potential adversary fully appreciates" this country's strength in strategic atomic weapons.

But it seems certain that what Chairman Dean called a revolutionary change in America's concept of war is near, not years away. The imminent exercises at Frenchmen's Flat may bring it very near indeed.

Those who hire fixers in Washington do not have much faith in the great American custom of writing to Congressmen.

Man is said to be the only animal who laughs, and sometimes he must wonder why.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1951
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. Representative Henderson Lanham, a Georgia Democrat, has been one of the Truman Administration's strongest advocates in the House, except on so-called "civil rights" questions.

He has voted consistently for major Fair and New Deal spending programs. He was one of the first Southern Democrats to openly support President Truman in the 1948 campaign.

Needless to say, the President has a special fondness for the Georgia Congressman. He listens to Lanham, and calls on him for his views, political and otherwise. In fact, it was Lanham who warned the President that former Defense Secretary Louis Johnson was a political liability to the Democrats. Shortly after attacking Johnson on the House floor, Lanham was informed that the President would fire Johnson.

Just the other day Congressman Lanham delivered another speech on the House floor. It didn't get a line in most daily papers. But what he said in it is just as significant as what he had to say regarding ex-Secretary of Defense Johnson. I quote the Congressman:

"I love the Democratic party but I do not approve the influence peddling, the mink coats, the deep freezes, free trips to Florida, 11 and one-half pound hams — some of them pretty things, it is true — that have come to light recently through investigations sponsored and carried to a successful conclusion by such stalwart young Democrats as Senator Fulbright, of Arkansas; Senator Kefauver, of Tennessee; and others who have been uncompromising in their efforts to uncover whatever bribery and corruption and whatever lowering of public morals might exist in our government."

After this warm-up, Lanham got down to business:

"I call for the resignation or removal of Mr. Boyle, the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He is an affable and likeable man and this affability may have been, in some measure, the cause for his efforts to help others."

"But there is already enough evidence that he has profited financially since he became Chairman of the Democratic Committee by using his influence of his position to make him ineligible for that high position."

Lanham called on the White House to fire all of those in the Administration who have accepted bribes and gifts. He said that unless they are purged from the Democratic Party, "I am afraid that results at the polls next year will be disastrous."

The Congressman did not spare the President personally in his accusations, which he charged made evident a general moral deterioration and a "lack of morality and high ethical principles in those in high places."

He said:

"Our President himself is a man of character and integrity and I regret to say that his exaggerated sense of loyalty leads him to condone conduct which if not actually illegal definitely fails short of the high moral and ethical standards that ought to dominate the conduct and character of those in public office."

Today's Quiet Moment

The Rev. Edward G. Yeomans
Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Our loving, heavenly Father, our help in ages past, our hope in years to come; as we approach another Lord's Day, we would commend to Thee all Christian brethren in all communions and churches, in this land and in other lands. We remember that Thou art no respecter of persons, but whosoever calleth upon Thee in faith, Thou wilt in no way cast out. Deal with us in accordance with Thy mercy. Break down the barriers of sect and man-made creeds which make for division in the body of Christ. Knit us together in the oneness of our faith in Thee as our heavenly Father and in Jesus Christ our Lord and Saviour, the only mediator between God and man. Prepare us for our coming together on the morrow in the Lord's House. May the Lord's Day be a blessed and holy day to each. Keep us ever in Thy loving care, we pray in Jesus' Holy Name. Amen.

WARRIORS BEAT COUNCIL ROCK XI IN EASY FASHION

Bristol High's blocking was at its best last night as the Warriors scored four touchdowns to trounce the Council Rock High team, 25-6, on the local gridiron and take undisputed possession of first place in the Lower Bucks County Conference.

The Warriors got the jump on the visiting Indians from the start when the line opened up large holes to enable the backs to slip through for nice gains. When in the open, the backfield received good blocking to add more yardage to the ground gained.

Two of the Bristol touchdowns went to Andy Accardi who brought the fans to their feet early in the 3rd period with a sensational 65-yd. run for a touchdown. His mates mowed down foe after foe to give Andy clear sailing to the goal-line.

Accardi also accounted for the first touchdown on a one-yard smash in the initial quarter. The only Bristol conversion was Accardi's line buck after the third TD.

The strong Council Rock offense seemed to bog down completely in the first half as it marked up but one first down. It came to life in the third quarter and by deception alone chalked up four first downs. It added two more before making a touchdown in the final quarter to make the first down score, 7-7.

Charlie Perkins made the Council Rock six-pointer with Gene Dugan and Al Holton scoring the other pair of touchdowns for the Warriors.

Bristol started to knock on the Council Rock scoring door early in the game as on the second play, Holton intercepted a pass and ran to Bristol's 45. Two plays saw Bristol at a standstill so on third down, Accardi whipped a pass to Ercole Petrizzi for a first on the Council Rock 43. Holton carried the ball twice to reach the Council Rock 25. Accardi broke loose on an off tackle play and got as far as the six but the ball was recalled and Bristol penalized 15 yards. After Accardi picked up six, Gene Dugan hauled the pigskin around end for a first on the Council Rock 11. Accardi went to the CR's three but on the next play Petrizzi fumbled and White recovered for the visitors. Council Rock could not advance so Teacher booted to his 30 where Johnson downed the ball. Accardi clipped off 15 yards at end. After Dugan lost 4 yards, Gibbs flipped a forward to Meehan which was good for 14 yards. Holton lugged the ball off tackle for a first on the invaders' three. After a penalty put the ball in play on the one, Accardi, behind wonderful interference scored on an end run. Gleason missed the extra point try, a drop-kick.

Bristol scored twice in the second period. Shortly after the quarter began, Herman Teschner went back to kick but two Bristol linemen broke through and blocked the boot. Jack Guie picked up the ball on the 30 and ran to the 12 before being spilt. Holton lost 2 and Accardi picked them up. A nice pass, Gibbs to John Meehan put the ball on the CR 4 from where Holton found big hole at tackle to score. Gleason again missed the conversion try, making the score, 13-0.

The quarter was almost over when the Warriors made their third TD. Holton gave Bristol possession by intercepting a pass on his 45. A pass, Accardi to Holton, was completed on Council Rock's 43. Council Rock suffered a 15-yard penalty. Accardi's next pass went to Bill Gillies who caught it on the 11. Dugan followed his interference nicely to score the touchdown without difficulty. Accardi made it 19-0 by bucking the line.

The fans had hardly got back to their seats after the first half recess when Bristol scored again. The kickoff went to Petrizzi on the 25, he knifed his way to the 35. On the first play, Accardi went off tackle, broke loose and with Gillies helping him clear the way, raced 65 yards for the final touchdown. Holton missed the extra point try.

Council Rock showed its best offensive power while it was trailing, 25-0.

It received the kickoff on its 18. Perkins skirted end on a reverse for 17 yards. Two plays and then Bob Teschner made a first on the 45. Aided by a 5-yard penalty and line plays by Russ Morris and Teschner, the ball was moved to the Bristol 42. Perkins added five and Herman Teschner 2. Perkins made the fourth consecutive first down on Bristol's 30. Perkins and Bob Teschner brought the ball to Bristol's 22 but the boys of Chick D'Angelo's squad tightened here and held for down.

It was until the final quarter that Council Rock made its touchdown. Early in the period, two 15-yard penalties and a loss of 10 on an attempted pass drove Bristol back deep in its own territory. An exchange of punts followed with Bristol taking over on Council Rock's 35. Accardi tried to pass but Perkins intercepted on his 40 and ran to the Bristol 30. Interference was allowed on a pass, the ball being put on Bristol's 15. Perkins made 10 yards on a reverse and two plays later went over for the touchdown. The extra point was curtain time is promptly at 8:30.

Langhorne Players To Give Production

With Langhorne Manor school tax rate jumping from six mills in 1946 to 33 mills in 1951, many property holders have queried the tax collector regarding such tremendous increase in so short a time. The tax collector had expressed a desire that such a session be called in order to clarify the situation. The opinion was that taxes should have been raised several years ago, instead of maintaining such a low rate for so long; and that they should have been raised gradually.

It was pointed out by several at the meeting that Langhorne Manor, barring industries, must depend on residential properties alone for school taxes. One of those attending the meeting suggested as a possible solution the consolidation of the boroughs.

Delaware was the first state to ratify the U. S. Constitution.

JAYVEES SCORE WIN OVER DELHAAS; GAME ENDS 6 TO 0

In the first game of the twin-bill on the high school field last night, the Bristol Jayvees scored a touchdown in the first quarter to win its second straight game by a 6-0 score. Delhaas Junior Varsity was the victim in a tightly-fought contest.

Both Jayvees' lineup produced stubborn defenses and few first downs were registered. Those that were made came as the result of forward passes.

Delhaas put up a stiff fight before yielding the only score in the first quarter of the tilt. Bristol first threatened when Larry Cohen tossed a long aerial to Jim Coles who was downed on the Delhaas 20. The entire play covered 45 yards. But Delhaas thwarted the Bristol offense at this stage and took over on the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond T. Dugan have returned home after spending a week on Long Island, N. Y.
